DUNCAN'S COMMENTS:

Cincinnati is not Ohio's largest market by Population (Cleveland) but it is the state's largest radio market. That may say more about Cleveland than it does Cincinnati. Be that as it may, Cincinnati has become a fairly good radio market. This status is being threatened by a 23% decline in listening levels since 1991 and a 27% increase in viable radio stations.

WLW was a dying radio station in the mid-1980's. The Frank Wood and Randy Michaels took it over and gave it new life. It's ratings have remained steady ever since - usually around a 10 share. No other station comes close to it in revenue.
