DUNCAN'S COMMENTS:
 El Paso has always been a difficult radio market. There are too many stations for a revenue pool which has only grown slowly. Usually over 30 stations show up in the Arbitrons. Granted that some are Juarez stations and do not take many dollars out of the market. However, they do take away listening. Overall listening levels have held up fairly well. Also, El Paso has one of the lowest levels of unlisted station listening. NPR does not play well in El Paso
